Competition for educators “Video and active citizenship”

Submit your interesting video related to the theme of “active citizenship” and win a free trip to our Berlin Forum for one person (economy flight and accommodation for three nights paid). Contributions which don't rely on spoken language are preferred. If spoken language is used please make sure that you include English subtitles. Contributions from all educational sectors are encouraged (pre-school, school, vocational training, adult education, university).

Here is what you need to do:

- Design your idea
- Produce your video, maximum length 3 minutes
- Upload your video with a short message to <http://viducate.ning.com> (registration is free)
- Send us an email with your name, institution, address, email address and video title
- Wait to see if you have won!

When uploading your video you declare that you give the viducate project the rights to publish your video within the event /online/ local television and that the video does not contain copyright protected visuals or music. Deadline for your contribution is the 31st August 2010.

You can find more information in our competition flyer.
